Due to the uncertainty of organizational changes, programs that have been transferred to the new Department of Education will be shown in their proper places (with program numbers changed) in the update edition of the Catalog. That update will also reflect the Department of Health, Education and Welfare as the Department of Health and Human Services.

A user feedback form is provided for suggestions and comments on Catalog improvement. The reverse side of the form becomes a franked, pre-addressed envelope when correctly folded.

The objectives of some of the new programs are given below:

INTRODUCTION

The Federal Program Information Act, Public Law 95-220, provides for the dissemination of information on Federal domestic assistance programs through the Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance, the Federal Assistance Programs Retrieval System (FAPRS), and by magnetic tape. The Office of Management and Budget maintains a Federal assistance information data base from which program information is obtained.

The Catalog provides the user with access to all programs of Federal departments and agencies in a single publication. Program information is cross-referenced by agency, functional classification, subject, eligible applicants, popular name, authorizing legislation, and Federal circular requirements. Other sections of the Catalog provide users with information on the administrative requirements of Federal circulars, definitions of the types of assistance under which programs are administered, proposal writing and grant application procedures, and additional sources of information on Federal programs and services. Also included is a chart on how to use the Catalog to locate programs of interest, and a chart describing the clearinghouses Project Nofification and Review System (PNRS) with the prescribed application procedures under which programs must be reviewed.

The Office of Management and Budget distributes free copies of the Catalog to National, State and local offices. At the national level copies are provided to: Members of Congress (Washington D.C. offices), congressional staff, and Federal offices of the U.S. Government. At the State level copies of the Catalog are provided to: Governors, State Coordinators of Federal-State Relations, Directors of State Departments of Administration and Budget Offices, Directors of State Departments of Community Affairs, Directors of State Planning Agencies, State clearinghouses and Central Information Reception Agencies, Directors of State Agricultural Extension Services, State Municipal Leagues, State Association of Counties, Chief State School Officers, and State Employment Security Agencies. At the local level copies are provided to: Mayors, County Chairmen, Chairmen of Boards of Commissioners and city planners. Copies are also provided to the Federal Information Centers, Federal Regional Councils, Federal Executive Boards, and appropriate field and area offices of most Federal agencies. The Catalog is also provided to other agencies of State and local govenments down to and including those with a population size of 250 at no cost. Private individuals who wish to receive a copy of the Catalog must contact the Government Printing Office, Superintendent of Documents, Washington, DC 20402. (See back cover of Catalog for subscription form).

Program information retrieved from the computerized version (FAPRS) provides users with specific information on Federal programs from the Catalog based upon the applicant's input of basic eligibility, functional areas of interest, geographic location, and specific types of assistance. This search and retrieval method selects specific programs based upon input supplied. FAPRS also offers the user the opportunity to comment on the system and the information provided.

Program information from the Catalog is also available on machine readable magnetic tape which is updated each time the Catalog is published. The magnetic tape contains all textual material published in the program description section of the Catalog. In addition, a characteristics record contains coded program information extracted from the textual material. From the text record of the tape, users may retrieve the complete text or specific sections of the program. The characteristics record format allows the user to retrieve program numbers and titles, along with the program function, types of assistance, applicants, beneficiaries, circular requirements, obligations, matching requirements, geographic data, and authorizing legislation. The documentation accompanying the magnetic tape describes the procedures for retrieving program information in various formats. The tape may be purchased from the Department of Commerce, National Technical Information Service, 5285 Port Royal Road, Springfield, Virginia 22151.

THE FEDERAL ASSISTANCE PROGRAMS RETRIEVAL SYSTEM (ENHANCED VERSION)

The Federal Assistance Programs Retrieval System (FAPRS) is a computerized question-answer system which is designed to provide rapid access to Federal domestic assistance program information. The system provides information on Federal programs which meet the developmental needs of the applicant and for which the applicant meets basic eligibility criteria. Program information provided by FAPRS is determined from input supplied by the requestor. Input required includes the name of the State, county, city, town, or federally designated Indian Tribe for which program information is requested; the population of the city or town; the type of applicant (e.g., State or local governments, federally designated Indian Tribes, nonprofit organizations, small businesses, individuals), the type of assistance under which programs are administered (e.g., grants, loans); and the specific functional categories and subcategories of interest. Based upon the input supplied by the requestor, the output provided by FAPRS consists of 1) a list of program numbers and titles, 2) the full text of selected programs, or 3) specific sections of the program text.

As originally developed by the Department of Agriculture, FAPRS was designed to aid small, rural, isolated communities unfamiliar with Federal assistance programs or unable to locate Federal aid programs that had the greatest funding potential. FAPRS is now being accessed by both rural and urban areas. An enhanced version of FAPRS has been developed based on the requirements developed from an analysis of FAPRS users and an OMB study of the overall requirements for Federal information systems. The following features have been incorporated into the new FAPRS system:

1. Expansion of functional categories and subcategories. As listed in the Functional Index of the Catalog, the enhanced version of FAPRS uses 20 functional categories and 176 subcategories to specify an area of interest.

2. Expansion of the applicant eligibility specification to include 12 government related and 10 non-government related applicant types.

3. Specification of the type(s) of assistance desired as one of the search criteria. At present, the Catalog lists up to 15 types of assistance provided by Federal programs.

4. Display of definitions for functional subcategories, applicant types, and types of assistance.

5. Selection of specific sections of Catalog text to be displayed.

6. Formatted display of Federal circular coordination requirements for a selected list of programs.

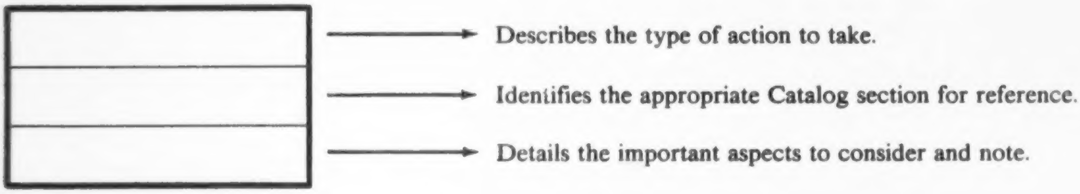
States have designated access points where FAPRS searches may be requested. In addition, bulletins on FAPRS are available from the system to inform users of the addition or deletion of programs, changes to program numbers from one edition of the Calalog to the next, and enhancements and changes to the system. For further information on FAPRS, the location of the nearest State access point, or a list of the timesharing companies from which interested persons may arrange for direct access to the system, write to the Office of Management and Budget, Budget Review Division, Federal Program Information Branch, Washington, D.C. 20503.

How To Use the Catalog

The application procedures information in the following section is general in nature and may vary depending upon the type of applicant, type of assistance offered under a program, or the nature of the particular program or project. Potential applicants are urged to carefully review the requirements indicated in each program, since evaluation of applications are based upon the degree to which program requirements have been met.

The following page contains a chart which suggests how to use the Catalog. By following the steps outlined in each block, the user will have extracted all of the Catalog data pertaining to a Federal assistance program. For matters too complex, or those which frequently change, potential applicants are encouraged to obtain this information from the Federal agency contact listed in the Information Contacts section of the program descriptions. The Federal agency contact will also supply detailed information and specific guidance on applying for Federal assistance.

Each block in the chart is divided into three sections:



Describes the type of action to take.

Identifies the appropriate Catalog section for reference.

Details the important aspects to consider and note.

Using the Chart

Users should start at the top of the chart with the blocks indicating LOCATE PROGRAM. Use one or more of these blocks depending upon the type of information you have regarding your Federal assistance interests. Move down the chart collecting and noting information as you proceed until you reach the block indicating APPLICATION SUBMISSION. Once you have identified the Federal program you believe fits your objective or proposal, you may process your application. Information on proposal writing and grant procedures are outlined in the Introduction.

Types of Assistance

Currently programs in the Catalog are being classified by OMB into 15 types of assistance. Benefits and services of the programs are provided through seven financial types of assistance and eight nonfinancial types of assistance. The following list defines the types of assistance which are available through the programs. Code letters below (A through O) which identify the type of assistance) will follow program titles in the Agency Index, Applicant Eligibility Index, the Functional Index, Deadlines Index, and in the list of added programs.

A Formula Grants — Allocations of money to States or their subdivision in accordance with a distribution formula prescribed by law or administrative regulation, for activities of a continuing nature not confined to a specific project.

B Project Grants — The funding, for fixed or known periods, of specific projects or the delivery of specific services or products without liability for damages for failure to perform. Project grants include fellowships, scholarships, research grants, training grants, traineeships, experimental and demonstration grants, evaluation grants, planning grants, technical assistance grants, survey grants, construction grants, and unsolicited contractual agreements.

C Direct Payments for Specified Use — Financial assistance from the Federal Government provided directly to individuals, private firms, and other private institutions to encourage or subsidize a particular activity by conditioning the receipt of the assistance on a particular performance by the recipient. This does not include solicited contracts for the procurement of goods and services for the Federal Government.

D Direct Payments with Unrestricted Use — Financial assistance from the Federal Government provided directly to beneficiaries who satisfy Federal eligibility requirements with no restrictions being imposed on the recipient as to how the money is spent. Included are payments under retirement, pension, and compensation programs.

E Direct Loans — Financial assistance provided through the lending of Federal monies for a specific period of time, with a reasonable expectation of repayment. Such loans may or may not require the payment of interest.

F Guaranteed/Insured Loans — Programs in which the Federal Government makes an arrangement to indemnify a lender against part or all of any defaults by those responsible for repayment of loans.

G Insurance — Financial assistance provided to assure reimbursement for losses sustained under specified conditions. Coverage may be provided directly by the Federal Government or through private carriers and may or may not involve the payment of premiums.

H Sale, Exchange, or Donation of Property and Goods — Programs which provide for the sale, exchange, or donation of Federal real property, personal property, commodities, and other goods including land, buildings, equipment, food and drugs. This does not include the loan of, use of, or access to Federal facilities or property.

I Use of Property, Facilities, and Equipment — Programs which provide for the loan of, use of, or access to Federal facilities or property wherein the federally owned facilities or property do not remain in the possession of the recipient of the assistance.

J Provision of Specialized Services — Programs which provide Federal personnel to directly perform certain tasks for the benefit of communities or individuals. These services may be performed in conjunction with nonfederal personnel, but they involve more than consultation, advice, or counseling.

K Advisory Services and Counseling — Programs which provide Federal specialists to consult, advise, or counsel communities or individuals including conferences, workshops, or personal contacts. This may involve the use of published information, but only in a secondary capacity.

L Dissemination of Technical Information — Programs which provide for the publication and distribution of information or data of a specialized technical nature frequently through clearinghouses or libraries. This does not include conventional public information services designed for general public consumption.

M Training — Programs which provide instructional activities conducted directly by a Federal agency for individuals not employed by the Federal Government.

N Investigation of Complaints — Federal administrative agency activities that are initiated in response to requests, either formal or informal, to examine or investigate claims of violations of Federal statutes, policy, or procedure. The origination of such claims must come from outside the Federal Government.

THE CATALOG OF FEDERAL DOMESTIC ASSISTANCE

The Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance is a Government-wide compendium of Federal programs, projects, services, and activities which provide assistance or benefits to the American public. It contains over 1,100 financial and nonfinancial assistance programs administered by departments and establishments of the Federal Government.

As the basic reference source of Federal programs, the primary purpose of the Catalog is to assist users in identifying programs which meet specific objectives of the potential applicant, and to obtain general information on Federal assistance programs. In addition, the intent of the Catalog is to improve coordination and communication between the Federal Government and State and local governments.

The Catalog is published annually, using the most current data available on the status of programs at the time the Catalog or updates to the Catalog are compiled. The basic edition of the Catalog, which is usually published in May, reflects completed congressional action on program legislation. In 1979, the Office of Management and Budget began publishing two updates. The updates reflect completed congressional action on the President's budget proposals and on substantive legislation as of the date of compilation, and include information on Federal programs that was not available at the time the latest edition of the Catalog was compiled. The first update to the Catalog is published the middle of September, and the second update is published the middle of December. The most recent update to the Catalog must be retained and used along with the basic edition in order to obtain the most current information on program revisions.

Programs selected for inclusion in the Federal assistance data base are defined as any activity, service, project or process of a Federal agency, commission, council, administration, Government-owned corporation, or any instrumentality of the Federal Government which provides assistance or benefits to the American public. The term 'assistance refers to the transfer of money, property, services, or anything of value, the principal purpose of which is to accomplish a public purpose of support or stimulation authorized by Federal statute. Programs are identified in terms of the authorizing statute, budget authority to enter into obligations resulting in outlays of Federal funds, the administering office, the purpose, benefits and beneficiaries of a program.

- Foreign activities except as such programs have direct economic benefit in the domestic economy. (A program that provides both domestic and foreign assistance will be included with the description of the program oriented toward the domestic aspect.);

- Benefits or assistance available only to current employees of the Federal Government either civilian or military;

- New programs proposed in the Budget for which appropriations have not been enacted; and

- Programs which are no longer active due to expired authorization or appropriation.

Organization of the Catalog

The Catalog is divided into three basic sections —— the indices, the program descriptions, and the appendices.

INDICES—To locate specific programs of interest, determine eligibility, and to obtain information on the dates applications for assistance should be submitted to the funding agency, users may consult the Agency Program Index, the Functional Index, the Popular Name Index, or the Subject Index; the Applicant Eligibility Index, and the Index listing deadlines for program applications.

The Agency Program Index lists all programs in the Catalog in numerical order by the five-digit program identification number, the program title, the Federal agency responsible for administering the program, and whether the program offers financial assistance, nonfinancial assistance, or a combination of both.

The Functional Index Summary lists the basic functional categories and the subcategories which further identify specific areas of interest. Following the Summary is the Functional Index listing each program number and title under the appropriate basic category and subcategory.

The Popular Name Index is a two part index, alphabetic and numeric, which lists programs according to the name most commonly used by agencies or applicants when referring to a program, and is followed by the program number.

The Subject Index provides a detailed listing of programs by various topics, general functional terms, categories of services, and selected beneficiaries, and is followed by the applicable program numbers.

The Applicant Eligibility Index is a listing in program number sequence, along with program titles, indicating the applicants eligible to apply. The index lists programs which may be applied for by:

- any of the several States of the United States, the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of a State exclusive of State institutions of higher education and hospitals;

- local governments which include a county, municipality, city town, township, federally recognized Indian tribal government, local public authority, school district, special district, intrastate district, council of governments, sponsor group representative organizations, and other regional or interstate government entity, or any agency or instrumentality of a local government;

- nonprofit organizations and institutions which include quasi-public, public and private institutions of higher education and hospitals, and other quasi-public and private nonprofit organizations such as, but not limited to, community action agencies (CAAs), Headstart agencies, research institutes, educational associations, and health centers. Excluded under this definition are Government-owned contractor operated facilities or research centers providing support for mission-oriented, large scale programs that are Government-owned or controlled, or are designed as federally funded research and development centers;

— U.S. Territories (and possessions) of the United States which include the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam, Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands (Caroline Islands, Marshall Islands, and Mariana Islands) and American Samoa;

— Native Americans which include Alaskan Natives and Native Americans of federally recognized Indian tribes;

— private individuals such as homeowners, students, farmers artists, scientists, consumers, small business persons, minorities, refugees, aliens, veterans, senior citizens, low-income persons, health and education professionals, builders, contractors, developers, handicapped persons, the physically afflicted.

The Deadlines Index (for program applications) is a listing of program numbers and titles and the deadline date(s) by which funding agencies must receive applications. This information is also contained in the Deadlines Section of the program descriptions.

Users should also consult the following listings:

The Deleted Programs list which identifies programs that have been deleted since the previous edition of the Catalog due to: expiration of authorization or appropriation; programs incorporated into existing programs (which results in a deletion of program numbers rather than the program itself); termination of an agency; or the criteria for inclusion in the Catalog are no longer valid, (e.g., programs no longer operating with Federal funds).

The Added Programs list which identifies newly authorized and/or newly funded programs, programs that have been reinstated due to new authorization, or programs not previously submitted by a Federal agency. Also included on this list are programs that have been split from existing programs and assigned new program numbers (which results in an increase in the number of programs previously funded rather than newly funded programs).

The Crosswalk of Changes to Program Numbers and Titles which lists programs that have undergone a title change, or a program number change due to restructuring of programs, or reorganization of a Federal agency.

PROGRAM DESCRIPTIONS——The center section of the Catalog contains descriptions of Federal programs listed by program number in the same numerical sequence as the Agency Program Index. Detailed information concerning programs are contained under the description headings of each Catalog program. The following is an explanation of each program description heading followed by examples of the type of information found under each heading.

NOTE: The program used in the example below does not exist. It is provided for the purpose of illustration only.

PROGRAM NUMBER, TITLE, AND POPULAR NAME — Each program in the Catalog is preceded by a five-digit program identification number. The first two digits identify the Federal department or agency that administers the program, and the last three numbers are assigned in numerical sequence. Thus, program number 10.500 is administered by the Department of Agriculture, 11.500 by the Department of Commerce, 12.500 by the Department of Defense, 13.500 by the Health, Education, and Welfare, etc. The program title is the descriptive name given to a program. The popular name, which is less descriptive than the program title, is the name by which programs are commonly known or most often used by applicants and agencies.

Example: 13.259 MENTAL HEALTH—CHILDREN'S SERVICES

FEDERAL AGENCY — The Federal agency is the Federal department, agency, commission, council or instrumentality of the Government, and the primary organizational sub-unit (the administering office) that has direct operational responsibility for managing a program.

Example: ALCOHOL, DRUG ABUSE AND MENTAL HEALTH ADMINISTRATION, PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE, DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH EDUCATION, AND WELFARE

AUTHORIZATION — This section lists the legal authority upon which a program is based (acts, amendments to acts, Public Law numbers, titles, sections, Statute Codes, citations to the U.S. Code, Executive Orders, Presidential Reorganization Plans, and Memorandum from an agency head).

Example: Community Mental Health Centers Amendments of 1975; Public Law 94-63; Part A, Section 203(e); U.S.C. 2689.

OBJECTIVES — This is a brief statement of specific objectives stated in terms of what the program is intended to accomplish along with the goals toward which the program is directed.

Example: To stimulate innovative approaches to children's mental health problems emphasizing prevention and coordination of community services; to expand training activities and broaden resources for children's mental health services.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE — This section indicates the form in which the assistance is transmitted from the Federal Government and is initially received for use or distribution by the applicant.

Example: Project Grants.

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS — This section describes the potential uses for the assistance provided to meet stated objectives, and the specific restrictions placed upon the use of funds. The section cites one or numerous applications depending upon the nature of a particular program, and whether the program is suitable for joint funding under OMB Circular No. A-111. Since this section translates objectives into the uses of a program, users may develop a clearer understanding of the program's objectives.

Example: Support for Continuation Grants only. Program authorizes funds on a matching basis for initial staffing of facilities offering mental health services for children. Staffing grants may be used for a portion of the costs of professional and technical personnel to operate a facility for child mental health services; a higher percentage may be paid if an area has been designated a poverty area by the Secretary, HEW. The proposed program must provide consultation and coordinating services with other community agencies serving children in service area, and must include a plan with the means by which it will be evaluated. JOINT FUNDING: This program is considered suitable for joint funding with closely related Federal financial assistance programs in accordance with the provisions of OMB Circular No. A-111. For programs that are not identified as suitable for joint funding, the applicant may consult the headquarters or field office of the appropriate funding agency for further information on statutory or other restriction involved.

ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS:

Applicant Eligibility — This section indicates who can apply to the Federal Government for assistance and the criteria the potential applicant must satisfy. For example, individuals may be eligible for research grants, and the criteria to be satisfied may be that they have a professional or scientific degree, three years of research experience, and be a citizen of the United States. Universities, medical schools, hospitals, or State and local governments may also be eligible. Where State governments are eligible, the type of State agency will be indicated (State welfare agency or State agency on aging) and the criteria that they must satisfy.

Certain programs in the Catalog (e.g., the Basic Educational Opportunity program which provides grants to students) involve intermediate levels of application processing, i.e., applications are transmitted through colleges or universities that are neither the direct applicant nor the ultimate beneficiary. For these programs, the criteria that the intermediaries must satisfy are also indicated, along with intermediaries who are not eligible.

Example: To be eligible for staffing grants, applicant must be part of, or affiliated with, a community mental health center, unless there is no center serving the community. Applicant may then be any public or privatenonprofit agency providing, or coordinating with programs which will provide, a full range of mental health services for children and their families residing in the service area. Only support for continuation projects are currently available.

Beneficiary Eligibility — This section lists the ultimate beneficiaries of a program, the criteria they must satisfy and who specifically is not eligible. The applicant and beneficiary will generally be the same for programs that provide assistance directly from a Federal agency. However, financial assistance that pass through State or local governments will have different applicants and beneficiaries since the assistance is transmitted to private sector beneficiaries who are not obligated to request or apply for the assistance.

Example: Children and their families in the service area as well as personnel of schools and other community agencies serving children.

Credentials/Documentation — This is a brief description of the credentials or documentation required prior to, or along with, a request or application for assistance. Indicated are the eligibility factors that must be proved, certified, or established. This section also indicates Federal Management Circular 74-4 requirements (Cost Principles Applicable to Grants and Contracts with State and Local Governments) where applicable, State Plan requirements, and whether Governors (or their designated Plan review agencies) must be given an opportunity to review the State Plan pursuant to Attachment A, Part III of OMB Circular No. A-95 (revised).

Example: Costs will be determined in accordance with HEW Regulation 45 CFR, Part 74, Subpart Q. Appendix C of that subpart, which applies to State and local governments, is based on FMC 74-4.

APPLICATION AND AWARD PROCESS:

Preapplication Coordination — This section indicates whether any prior coordination or approval is required with governmental or nongovernmental units prior to the submission of a formal application to the Federal funding agency. For example, programs may require 1) State agency approval prior to the submission of an application to a Federal agency, 2) preparation and submission of a State Plan under Part III of OMB Circular No. A-95, 3) coordination with State and areawide clearinghouses under Part I of OMB Circular No. A-95, 4) the submission of environmental impact information as required by the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969, and Executive Order 11514 of March 4, 1970, 5) coordination with the policies of OMB Circular No. A-102, (Uniform Administrative Requirements for Grants-in-Aid to State and Local Governments), or 6) a preapplication or preapplication conference. Applicants should also ascertain from the Federal agency the existence of other circular requirements not indicated by this section, and from the State any State requirements which may be in effect. Example: Preapplication consultation with the ADAMHA Branch of the HEW Regional Office is not mandatory. Application must be accompanied by evidence of approval and recommendation by the appropriate State agency or agencies. The standard application forms as furnished by the Federal agency and required by OMB Circular No. A-102 must be used for this program. Applications are subject to State an areawide clearinghouses review pursuant to procedures in Attachment A, Part I of OMB Circular No. A-95 (revised).

Application Procedure — This section discusses the basic procedural steps required by the Federal agency in the application process, beginning with the lowest level (e.g., State and local government units, institutions or organizations) and ending eventually with the Federal Government. Each program will indicate whether applications are to be submitted to the Federal headquarters, regional or local office, or to a State or local government office. If a State Plan is required, this will be indicated again in this section since 'applications' under formula grant programs are in the form of a State Plan. Numerous programs in the Catalog require the standard application forms in OMB Circular No. A-102 (Attachment M), other applications may be in the form of a written request to the funding agency stating the need for assistance and requesting available services, or a formal proposal prepared in response to an announcement in the Federal Register or the Commerce Business Daily. (See information and guidance on application procedures under Appendix I below.) Also indicated in this section is whether OMB Circular No. A-110 (Grants and Agreements with Institutions of Higher Education, Hospitals, and Other Nonprofit Organizations) applies to the program.

Example: Continuation Application Form ADM-115 should be used for staffing. Instructions and consultation may be obtained from the mental health section of the appropriate HEW Regional Office. Application is sent to the Regional Office with copy to Acting Director, Division of Mental Health Service Programs, NIMH, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857. This program is subject to the provision of OMB Circular No. A-110.

Award Procedure — This section lists the basic procedural steps for awarding assistance, beginning with the organizational components of the Federal agency that has final approval authority for the application and ending with the lowest level at which Federal resources are expended. Also indicated is whether assistance passes through the initial applicant for further distribution by intermediate level applicants to groups or individuals in the private sector.

Accepted applications are subjected to evaluation by the headquarters, regional, local or district office to determine the feasibility of the proposed project to include consistency with Federal and individual agency policies concerning its scope and purpose. Grant payments may be made by a letter of credit, advance by Treasury check, or reimbursement by Treasury check. At this time, notification of the award is also sent (by the Federal agency) to the State Central Information Reception Agency (SCIRA) as prescribed by Treasury Circular 1082. (SCIRAs are State agencies located in each State, designated by the Governor to serve as the central reception point for Federal grant-in-aid information. The Department of the Treasury provides Federal agencies with the addresses of SCIRAs.) Awards may be made by the headquarters office directly to the applicant, an agency field office, a regional office, or by an authorized county office.

Example: The Regional Health Administrator makes awards to approved applicants and provides required notification to designated State Central Information Reception Agency in accordance with Treasury Circular 1082.

Deadlines — When available, this section indicates the deadlines for applications to the funding agency which will be stated in terms of the date(s) or between what dates the application should be received. Reference is made to new applications, continuations, renewals, and supplementals. Application deadline information is also indicated in the Deadlines Index, in the agency's program guidelines, or announced in the Federal Register. Where not available, applicants should contact the funding agency for deadline information.

Example: Staffing: Determined by award period (contact the Regional Office).

Range of Approval or Disapproval Time — This section informs the applicant of the representative range of time required for the application to be processed (in terms of days and months) at the Federal level.

Example: 90 to 120 days.

Appeals — In some cases, there are no provisions for appeal. Where applicable, this section discusses appeal procedures or allowable rework time for resubmission of applications to be processed by the funding agency. Appeal procedures vary with individual programs and are either listed in this section or applicants are referred to appeal procedures documented in the relevant Code of Federal Regulations (CFR).

Example: Not applicable. (An appeal was not applicable in this case. A related program (13.231) allows applicants to reapply if revised applications are submitted.)

Renewals — This section advises the applicant whether renewals or extensions of applications are available and the procedures for such. In some instances, renewal procedures may be the same as the application procedure, e.g., for projects of a non-continuing nature renewals will be treated as new, competing applications; for projects of an on-going nature renewals may be given annually.

Example: This program is on-going and is renewed annually. Grantees are required to update their plan and submit a current year budget.

ASSISTANCE CONSIDERATIONS:

Formula and Matching Requirements — This section indicates the formula or matching requirements prescribed in the allocation of funds. A formula may be based on population, per capita income, etc. This section also informs applicants whether there are any matching requirements to be met when participating in the cost of a project. In general, the matching share represents that portion of the project costs not borne by the Federal Government. Usually a minimum percentage for matching share is prescribed by program legislation, and matching share requirements are included in the grant agreement. Attachment F of OMB Circular No. A-102 sets forth the criteria and procedures for allowability and evaluation of matching share requirements which may be cash or in-kind contributions made by State and local governments or other agencies, institutions, private organizations, or individuals to satisfy matching requirements of Federal grants or loans.

Cash contributions represent the grantees' cash outlay, including the outlay of money contributed to the grantee by other public agencies, institutions, private organizations or individuals. When authorized by Federal regulation, Federal funds received from other grants may be considered as the grantees' cash contribution.

In-kind contributions represent the value of noncash contributions provided by the grantee, other public agencies and institutions, private organizations or individuals. In-kind contributions may consist of charges for real property and equipment, and value of goods and services directly benefitting and specifically identifiable to the grant program. When authorized by Federal legislation, property purchased with Federal funds may be considered as grantees' in-kind contribution.

Example: Staffing: Federal funds on a decreasing percentage basis over a period of 8 years 90 percent - 1st and 2nd years; 80 percent - 3rd year; 75 percent - 4th and 5th years; 70 percent - 6th, 7th and 8th years. Non-poverty areas are entitled to: 80 percent - 1st and 2nd years; 75 percent - 3rd year; 60 percent - 4th year; 45 percent - 5th year; 30 percent - 6th, 7th and 8th years.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance — This section indicates the time period that the assistance is normally available, whether there are any restrictions placed on the time permitted to use the funds awarded, and the timing of disbursement of the assistance, e.g., lump sum, annually, quarterly, or as required.

Example: Staffing grants are limited to eight years by law. Payments either on a Monthly Cash Request System or under a Letter of Credit.

POST ASSISTANCE REQUIREMENTS:

Reports — This section indicates whether program reports, expenditure reports, cash reports or performance monitoring is required by the Federal funding agency, and specifies at what intervals (monthly, annually, etc.), this must be accomplished.

Example: Interim progress reports submitted annually as part of a non-competing application; report of expenditures due annually; immediate reporting of any inventions.

Audits — This section discusses the type, frequency, and time periods audits are required by the Federal Agency. For certain programs in the Catalog, audit procedures and requirements are set forth in OMB Circular No. A-73 (formerly FMC 73-2) Audit of Federal Operations and Programs, or in OMB Circular No. A-102 (Attachment P). Applicants should consult the Federal agency concerning other audit requirements.

Example: Annually by an accredited auditor in accordance with generally accepted principles. A copy to be furnished to the regional office within 30 days of issuance. All grants are subject to periodic inspection and audit by Federal auditors to assure proper accounting and use of grant funds.

Records — This section indicates the record retention requirements and the type of records the Federal agency may require. Not included are the normally imposed requirements of the General Accounting Office. For programs falling under the purview of OMB Circular No. A-102, record retention is set forth in Attachment C. For other programs, record retention is governed by the funding agency's requirements.

Example: Three year record retention requirement; records shall be retained beyond the 3 year period if audit findings have not been resolved.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION:

Account Identification — This 11-digit budget code identifies the account from which a program is funded as expressed in the Appendix to the Federal Budget. For identification code 75-0350-0-1-551, the first two digits represent the Federal agency code, and the third through sixth digits identify the apropriation (or fund) basic account symbol assigned by the Treasury Department. Where two or more accounts with different Treasury basic account symbols are included in a consolidated program, 99 will be the third and fourth digits, the fifth digit will be the fund type and the sixth digit will reflect the sequence of consolidated programs for that fund type within the agency. The seventh digit identifies the timing of transmittal of budget estimates:

0-Regular budget schedules
1-Supplemental under existing legislation
2-Proposed for later transmittal under proposed legislation
3-Proposed for later transmittal under existing legislation
4-Supplemental – additional authorizing legislation required
5-Recission proposal
6-Supplemental request pending

The eighth digit identifies the type of government fund involved:

1- General fund

General Fund Appropriation Accounts - Accounts established to record amounts appropriated by the Congress to be expended for the general support of the Government.

General Fund Receipt Accounts - Accounts credited with all receipts that are not earmarked by law for a specific purpose.

2- Special fund

Special Fund Appropriation Accounts - Accounts established to record appropriated amounts of special fund receipts to be expended for special programs in accordance with specific provisions of law.

Special Fund Receipt Accounts - Accounts credited with receipts from specific sources that are earmarked by law for a specific purpose.

3- Public Enterprise Revolving Fund Accounts - Funds authorized by Congress to be credited with receipts primarily from the public, that are generated by, and earmarked to finance, a continuing cycle of business-type operations.

4- Intragovernmental Revolving or Management Fund

Intragovernmental Fund Accounts - Accounts established to facilitate financing transactions within and between Federal agencies. These funds may be classified as intragovernmental revolving funds or management funds.

Intragovernmental Revolving Fund Accounts - Funds authorized by law to carry out a cycle of intragovernmental business-type operations. These funds are credited with offsetting collections from other agencies and accounts.

7- Trust Fund (non-revolving) - Funds collected and used by the Federal Government for carrying out specific purposes and programs according to terms of a trust agreement or statute, such as the social security and unemployment trust funds. Trust funds are administered by the Government in a fiduciary capacity and are not available for the general purposes of the Government. Trust fund receipt accounts are credited with receipts generated by the terms of the trust agreement or statute. Trust fund receipts that are not anticipated to be used in the immediate future are generally invested in interest bearing Government securities and earn interest for the trust fund. Trust fund expenditure accounts record amounts appropriated from trust fund receipts to be expended in carrying out the specific purposes or programs under the trust agreement or statute. A special category of trust funds called trust revolving funds is used to carry out a cycle of business-type operations, e.g., the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

8- Trust Fund (revolving) - A fund established to finance a cycle of operations through amounts received by the fund. There are three types of revolving funds: public enterprise, intragovernmental revolving, and trust revolving funds.

9- Deposit Fund - Accounts established to facilitate the accounting for collections that are either (a) held in suspense temporarily and later refunded or paid into some other fund of the Government upon administrative or legal determination as to the proper disposition thereof or (b) held by the Government as banker or agent for others and paid out at the discretion of the depositor. These accounts are not included in the budget totals and they are not available for expenses of the Government, although they do provide a means of financing the budget.

The last three digits represent the functional classification (code) used in the latest Federal Budget document, unless noted otherwise by the Office of Management and Budget. In cases where a program is split between two or more subfunctions: (a) if all subfunctions are in the same major function, the code is the same as for the major function; or (b) if two or more major functions are involved the digits '999' are used.

Example: 75-1361-0-1-550.

Obligations — The dollar amounts listed in this section represent obligations for the past fiscal year (PY), estimates for the current fiscal year (CY), and estimates for the budget fiscal year (BY) as reported by the Federal agencies. In each succeeding edition of the Catalog, the dollar amounts are revised to reflect changes which may result from supplemental appropriations, amendments, etc. Each program indicates what the obligation figures represent in terms of the type of assistance provided. Obligations for nonfinancial assistance programs indicate the administrative expenses involved in the operation of a program as an indication of the magnitude of the services being provided, or the items involved in obligations.

Example: (Grants) PY $19,853,000; CY est $20,407,000; and BY est $14,830,000.

Range and Average of Financial Assistance — This section lists the representative range (smallest to largest) of the amount of financial assistance available. These figures are based upon funds awarded in the past fiscal year and the current fiscal year to date. Also indicated is an approximate average amount of awards which were made in the past and current fiscal years.

Example: Formula: $26,355 to $691,481; $235,305.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS — This section briefly describes the accomplishments of a program using quantitative data, focussing on program output, results achieved, or services rendered during the past fiscal year, the current fiscal year, and projections for the coming fiscal year.

Example: In the past fiscal year, 140 applications were received and 140 staffing awards were issued. Approximately 147 continuation grants were funded during the current fiscal year and 103 are estimated to be funded in the budget fiscal year.

REGULATIONS, GUIDELINES, AND LITERATURE — This section lists the title, number, and price of guidelines, handbooks, manuals and other officially published information pertinent to a program. Since program regulations are published first in the Federal Register (FR) and later in the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR), citations to the CFR are listed.

Example: Interim guidelines available in application kits.

INFORMATION CONTACTS:

Regional or Local Office — This section lists the agency contact person, address and telephone number of the Federal regional or local office(s) to be contacted for detailed information regarding a program such as: 1) current availability of funds and the likelihood of receiving assistance within a given period; 2) whether the program is suitable for joint funding (where not indicated in the Uses and Use Restrictions section of the program); 3) preapplication and application forms required; 4) whether a preapplication conference is recommended; 5) assistance available in preparation of applications; 6) written instructions on A-95 (Part I) procedures and other circulars; 7) whether applications must be submitted to both State and areawide clearinghouses; 8) location of the clearinghouses; 9) State Plan submission date and the Federal office to receive the plan; 10) the availability of funds for preparation of a State Plan; 11) whether funding decisions are made at the headquarters, regional or local level; 12) application renewal procedures (including continuations and supplementals) or appeal procedures for rejected applications; and, 13) recently published program guidelines and material.

For most programs in the Catalog, this section references Appendix IV of the Catalog (Agency Regional and Local Office Addresses); however, certain programs list contact information under this section because of the small number of offices and/or the small number of programs for which the offices are relevant.

Example: ADAMHA Branch of the appropriate HEW Regional Office (see Appendix IV).

(Appendix IV listing) Region 1
 (Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont) William Farrow
 John F. Kennedy Federal Bldg.
 Government Center
 Boston, MA 02203
 (617) 223-6111
 (Use same 7-digit number for FTS)

Headquarters Office — This section lists names and addresses of the office at the headquarters level with direct operational responsibility for managing a program. A telephone number is also provided in cases where a regional or local office is not normally able to answer detailed inquiries concerning a program. Also listed are names and telephone numbers of information contacts for use by applicants in the Metropolitan Washington area.

Example: Dr. Steven Sharfstein, Acting Director, Division of Mental Health Service Programs, National Institute of Mental Health, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857. Telephone: (301) 443-3606 (Use same 7-digit number for FTS).

RELATED PROGRAMS — This section of the program description lists all programs in the Catalog that are closely related based on objectives and program uses. Applicants should also check these programs since they may provide additional assistance.

Example: 13.232, Maternal and Child Health Services; 13.233, Maternal and Child Health Training; 13.242, Mental Health Research Grants; 13.295, Community Mental Health Centers—Comprehensive Support; 13.630, Developmental Disabilities—Basic Support.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS: This section indicates the different types of projects which have been funded in the past. The examples give potential applicants an idea of projects that may be accepted for funding. With the exception of formula grant programs, with reporting requirements from a State agency to a Federal agency, both this and the following section pertain to most financial assistance programs.

Example: Awards are made only for staffing of facilities offering mental health services for children.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS: This section indicates the criteria used by the Federal grantor agency to evaluate proposals in order to inform potential applicants of the application review process and the criteria used to award funds for projects.

Example: The criteria for selecting proposals is based upon the extent the project will contribute to needed services and training, capability of applicant to provide services and training, more effective utilization of personnel providing mental health services, and development of new methods or information.

APPENDICES——The last section of the Catalog contains five appendices: Programs Requiring Circular Coordination (Appendix I); the Authorization Appendix (Appendix II); Commonly Used Abbreviations and Acronyms (Appendix III); Agency Regional and Local Office Addresses (Appendix IV); and Sources of Additional Information Contacts (Appendix V).

Appendix I — Programs Requiring Circular Coordination: The following is a brief description of the policy circulars referenced in the programs and in this Appendix. The description explains the purpose of the circulars, to whom they apply, and the general procedures to follow in applying for assistance.

OMB CIRCULAR NO. A-95 (REVISED) EVALUATION, REVIEW, AND COORDINATION OF FEDERAL AND FEDERALLY ASSISTED PROGRAMS AND PROJECTS (Attachment A, Parts I and III). Reference: Federal Register, Volume 41, No. 8, January 13, 1976.

Purpose: Attachment A, Part I of A-95, Project Nofification and Review System (PNRS), facilitates coordinated planning on an intergovernmental basis for certain programs through review by State and areawide planning and development clearinghouses of applications for Federal assistance. Reference to Part I of A-95 appears in the Preapplication Coordination section of the Catalog program descriptions.

Attachment A, Part III of A-95, State Plans, provides Governors and Federal agencies with information about the relationship to State or areawide comprehensive planning of State Plans which are required or form the basis for funding under various programs. Part III provides for review of such plans by State and areawide clearinghouses. Reference to Part III of A-95 appears in the Credentials/Documentation section of the Catalog program descriptions.

Applicants: A-95, Part I applies to all applicants under any program covered thereby. Part III applies only to State agencies. For those programs covered by both Parts I and III, Part I applies to applicants for subgrants from the State agency administering a formula grant. The State Plan required for the formula grant is reviewed under Part III.

Application procedure: Under A-95, Part I, clearinghouse review is normally completed in a 60 day, two stage process. Applicants submit a Notification of Intent (NOI) to apply for assistance to both the State and areawide clearinghouses in whose jurisdiction the project is to be located for a 30 day review period. Applicants then submit the completed application to clearinghouses for a 30 day review prior to submission of the application to the Federal funding agency. Comments made by or through clearinghouses must be submitted with the application to the Federal agency.

Applicants should check with the Federal funding agency for the names and addresses of the appropriate State and areawide clearinghouses. Applicants are urged to notify clearinghouses as early as possible in the application development process.

In various States, State law requires review of applications for Federal assistance under certain programs not covered by A-95, Part I. Such laws are enforced through State rules and regulations. Applicants are encouraged to ascertain the existence of such laws and to acquaint themselves with applicable procedures through contact with clearinghouses.

(See the Project Notification and Review System chart and narrative on the following pages for detailed application procedures under Part I of A-95).

Under A-95, Part III, State agencies submit a State Plan to the Governor or the Governor's designated Plan review agency for a 45 day review period prior to submission of the Plan to the Federal funding agency.

OMB CIRCULAR NO. A-102, UNIFORM ADMINISTRATIVE REQUIREMENTS FOR GRANTS—IN—AID TO STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENTS. Reference: Federal Register, Volume 42, No. 176, September 12, 1977.

Purpose: OMB Circular No. A-102 establishes uniform administrative requirements for programs that provide financial assistance through grants to State and local governments. It is intended to promote uniformity and consistency among Federal agencies in administration of grants by establishing standards in 16 areas. These areas include records retention, matching share, standards for grantees financial management systems, financial reporting requirements, standard forms for applying for Federal assistance, and audit standards. Only specific requirements imposed by the legislation establishing a grant program can take precedence over these and other standards included in the circular. Reference to this circular appears in the Preapplication coordination section of programs to which the requirement applies.

Applicants: State, local and federally recognized Indian tribal governments exclusive of institutions of higher education and hospitals.

Application procedure: Along with other administrative requirements of this circular, Attachment M sets forth the standard application forms to be used by State and local governments in applying for Federal grants except those Federal formula grants which do not require grantees to apply for Federal funds on a project basis. As indicated in the Attachment the standard forms and their purposes are briefly described below and are available from the Federal grantor agency:

1. Standard Form 424 - Federal Assistance: This form, which replaces Part I of the following applications, must be used as a cover sheet for the preapplication and the application forms described below.

2. Preapplication for Federal Assistance: This form is used to: (1) Establish communication between the Federal grantor agency and the applicant; (2) determine the applicant's eligibility; (3) determine how well the project can compete with similar applications from others; and (4) eliminate any proposals which have little or no chance for Federal funding before applicants incur significant expenditures for preparing an application. Preapplication forms shall be required for all construction, land acquisition and land development projects or programs for which the need for Federal funding exceeds $100,000. The Federal grantor agency may require the use of the preapplication form for other types of grant programs or for those for which the Federal fund request is for $100,000 or less. In addition, Federal agencies shall establish procedures allowing State and local government applicants to submit, if they so desire, the preapplication form when mandatory requirements for preapplication do not exist.

3. Federal Assistance Application for Nonconstruction Programs: This form is designed to accommodate several programs and shall be used by the applicant for all actions covered by Attachment M except where the major purpose of the grant involves construction, land acquisition, or development or single-purpose and one-time grant applications for less than $10,000 which do not require clearinghouse approval, an environmental impact statement, or the relocation of persons, businesses, or farms.

4. Federal Assistance Application for Construction Programs: This form is required for all grants where the major purpose of the program involves construction, land acquisition, and land development, except when the Application for Federal Assistance-Short Form is used.

5. Application for Federal Assistance — Short Form: This form is used for all grants for single-purpose and one-time grant applications for less than $10,000 not requiring clearinghouse approval, an environmental impact statement, or the relocation of persons, businesses, or farms. Federal grantor agencies may, at their discretion, authorize the use of this form for applications for larger amounts.

For all forms described herein all requests by grantees for changes, continuations, and supplementals to approved grants shall be submitted on the same form as the original application. For these purposes, only the required pages of the forms should be submitted.

OMB CIRCULAR NO. A-110, GRANTS AND AGREEMENTS WITH INSTITUTIONS OF HIGHER EDUCATION, HOSPITALS, AND OTHER NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS. Reference: Federal Register, Volume 41, No. 148, July 30, 1976.

Purpose: Sets forth administrative requirements for the administration of grants and other agreements to include money or property in lieu of money; does not include technical assistance programs providing services, or loans, loan guarantees, insurance, or direct payments to individuals. Reference to this circular appears in the Application Procedure section of programs that apply.

Applicants: Public and private institutions of higher education, hospitals, and other quasi-public and nonprofit organizations. The circular applies to agencies administering grants made to the above recipients and to their sub-recipients. (This circular does not apply to State and local governments covered by OMB Circular No. A-102.)

Application procedure: Standard Form 424 must be used for applications when applying for grants under programs covered by Attachment A, Part I of OMB Circular No. A-95 (revised).

OMB CIRCULAR NO. A-111, JOINTLY FUNDED ASSISTANCE TO STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENTS AND NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS. Reference: Federal Register, Volume 41, No. 148, July 30, 1976.

Purpose: Establishes policies and procedures to be followed in the joint funding of related programs of Federal assistance pursuant to the Joint Funding Simplification Act of 1974. Under one application, applicants may apply for resources available from more than one Federal agency, program, or appropriation, including assistance from State sources. Programs considered suitable for joint funding are identified in the Uses and Use Restrictions section of the programs. For programs that are not identified as suitable for joint funding, the applicant may consult the headquarters or field office of the appropriate agency for further information on statutory or other restrictions involved.

Applicants: State and local governments, Indian tribes, and nonprofit organizations acting separately or jointly in seeking assistance with respect to a single project.

Application procedure: Applicants submit the preapplication and application forms contained in Attachment H of this circular to the Federal Regional Council (FRC) in the region in which the applicant is located, and to State agencies from which the applicant requests assistance. If a Federal program being considered for joint funding assistance is subject to Part I of OMB Circular No. A-95, the entire joint funding application is subject to the policies and provisions of that circular. If an environmental impact statement is required, arrangements should be made for preparation of a joint or single environmental impact statement for the project. Applications for Federal assistance are submitted to the lead agency designated by the FRC. The FRC provides guidance and coordination on all applications for joint funding.

FEDERAL MANAGEMENT CIRCULAR 74-4, COST PRINCIPLES APPLICABLE TO GRANTS AND CONTRACTS WITH STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENTS. Reference: 34 CFR 255.

Purpose: Establishes principles for determining allowable direct and indirect costs applicable to grants and contracts (including subgrants and subcontracts) and provides standards for determining the allowability of selected items of cost. Reference to this circular appears in the Credentials/Documentation section of programs that apply.

Applicants: State and local governments and other applicants as determined by the Federal funding agency. This circular does not apply to publicly financed institutions of higher education (covered by OMB Circular No. A-21, Cost Principles for Educational Institutions, formerly FMC 73-8) or publicly owned hospitals and other providers of medical care subject to the requirements of the Federal agency.

Application procedure:

a) The Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, in consultation with other Federal agencies concerned, will be responsible for negotiation, approval, and audit of cost allocation plans, which will be submitted to it by the States. These plans will cover central support service costs of the State.

b) At the grantee department level in a State, a single Federal agency will have been assigned responsibility similar to that set forth in (a), above, for negotiation, approval, and audit of the indirect cost proposal.

c) Cost allocation plans will be retained at the local government level for audit by a designated Federal agency except in those cases where the designated agency requests that cost allocation plans be submitted to it for negotiation and approval.

d) At the grantee department level of local governments, the Federal agency with the predominant interest in the work of the grantee department will be responsible for the necessary negotiation, approval and audit of the indirect cost proposal.

An additional reference source for application procedures, A Guide for State and Local Government Agencies, is published by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare and is available at the Government Printing Office.

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY CIRCULAR 1082, NOTIFICATION TO STATES OF GRANT-IN-AID INFORMATION. Reference: Federal Register, Volume 40, No. 226, November 21, 1975.

Purpose: Establishes procedures for Federal agency notification to the State Central Information Reception Agency (SCIRA) of the purpose and amount of grants or grants-in-aid in the form of cost reimbursable contracts awarded to States and local governments, (including the District of Columbia), and territories and possessions of the U.S. Also reported are all other types of Federal financial assistance (loans, loan guarantees, and insurance) awarded to State-affiliated institutions of higher education, quasi-public agencies and nonprofit institutions. Grants-in-aid covered by this circular are comprised of two categories for reporting purposes: 1) basic reporting of Federal assistance information which includes all grants or grants-in-aid in the form of cost reimbursable contracts awarded to State and local governments, and 2) supplemental reporting of Federal assistance information which includes all other financial assistance regardless of the recipient type, where there is a perceivable need for such information to facilitate State and local government planning, budgeting, or program administration. For basic reporting, Federal agencies submit a Report of Federal Action to the appropriate SCIRA using SF 424. Supplemental reporting is submitted to the SCIRA using the most practicable means available to the agency. As indicated in Appendix I, programs with one asterisk have been identified by agencies as basic reporting. Programs having two asterisks have been identified as basic as well as supplemental reporting. Reference to this circular appears in the Award Procedure section of programs to which the requirements apply.

Applicants: The requirements of this circular are applicable only to Federal agencies administering grant-in-aid programs.

Application procedure: This circular does not contain requirements for the applicant in applying for Federal assistance.

ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT STATEMENTS

Purpose: Specific programs listed in the Catalog have been determined to have a significant effect on the environment and require an environmental impact assessment or an environmental impact statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 and Executive Order 11514 of March 4, 1970. (Significant effects include actions that may have both beneficial and detrimental effects.) Reference to this requirement appears in the Preapplication Coordination section of programs that apply.

Applicants: The requirements apply to applicants seeking assistance under programs identified in the Catalog, or other programs so identified by the grantor agency, as requiring an environmental impact statement or an environmental impact assessment.

Application procedure: In the early stages of project application, and in all cases prior to agency decisions concerning major actions on applications, the applicant should be advised by the Federal funding agency that environmental impact information is required (to be submitted under the agency's guidelines) in connection with the proposed project for an environmental assessment (to be made by the Federal agency), or an environmental impact statement (to be supplied by the Federal agency) concerning the project. Although the list in Appendix I is not conclusive, it contains programs normally requiring either an environmental assessment or an environmental impact statement.

Appendix II — Authorization Appendix: This appendix lists Acts, Executive Orders and Public Law numbers which mandate programs in the Catalog. Acts and Executive Order citations are listed in alphabetic sequence and Public Law citations are listed numerically by the Congress. The citations are followed by their corresponding program numbers.

Appendix III — Commonly Used Abbreviations and Acronyms.

Appendix IV — Agency Regional and Local Office Addresses: This appendix lists the names, addresses and telephone numbers of the regional and local offices which should be contacted for detailed information concerning a program and for initiating the process for applying for assistance. In cases where a Federal agency does not have a regional or local office, the headquarters office listed in the program description should be contacted.

Appendix V — Sources of Additional Information Contacts: Additional information concerning Federal programs is available from Federal Information Centers, Federal Regional Councils, and Federal Executive Boards as listed in this Appendix.

CH State or Areawide Planning and Development Clearinghouse

The Project Notification and Review System (PNRS) is a two-part system consisting of two separate 30-day periods for review of applications by State and areawide clearinghouses commencing with the clearinghouses' receipt of the Notification of Intent (NOI) to apply for assistance. During the first 30-day period, the NOI is reviewed by the clearinghouses and submitted for comment to State agencies, local governments, and other public agencies whose projects or programs may be affected by the proposed project. During the second 30-day period, the completed, formal application is reviewed by the clearinghouses and comments returned to the applicant. The applicant then submits the completed application, including clearinghouse comments, to the Federal funding agency. The following pages contain detailed procedures applicants should follow in applying for Federal assistance programs covered by Attachment A, Part I of OMB Circular No. A-95 (revised).

Program Application Procedures

1. Applicant contacts Federal funding agency to:

   (a) request the agency's written procedures and regulations implementing the requirements of A-95, Part I;

   (b) obtain the address of the clearinghouses in whose jurisdiction the proposed project is located;

2. Applicant submits the Notification of Intent (NOI) to apply for assistance to clearinghouses for a 30 day review.

The NOI may be submitted on Standard Form 424. However, many clearinghouses have developed their own notification forms and instructions. Applicants are urged to contact the clearinghouses for this information in order to expedite the review process.

The NOI should include a summary description of the project for which assistance is being sought. Where not otherwise prescribed by the Federal funding agency, the summary should contain the following information, as appropriate and to the extent available (A-95, Part I):

(a) identity of the applicant agency, organization, or individual applying for assistance;

(b) the geographic location of the project to be assisted;

(c) a brief description of the proposed project (type, purpose, general size or scale, estimated cost, beneficiaries, or other characteristics which will enable clearinghouses to identify agencies of State or local government having plans, programs or projects that might be affected by the proposed project);

(d) a statement as to whether the applicant has been advised by the funding agency that environmental impact information is required;

(e) the Federal program title, Catalog program number, and the Federal funding agency as listed in the latest Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance.

(f) the estimated date the applicant expects to formally file the application with the funding agency.

Exceptions and Variations

If the applicant submits a completed application to the clearinghouse without having submitted a NOI (because of the project's simplicity or because the clearinghouse's procedures do not require a review at the notification stage), the clearinghouse may have a total of 60 days to review the completed application.

If the applicant submits both the NOI and the completed application within the first 30 days, the clearinghouse may have the number of days remaining in the initial 30-day notification period and the second 30 days to complete the review. (The submission of the completed application initiates the beginning of the second 30-day period.) If the clearinghouse cannot complete the review within 30 days, normally the applicant is notified to that effect.

If the applicant receives no response from the State or areawide clearinghouse within the allotted 30 days for review of the NOI, the applicant may contact the clearinghouse to ascertain the status of the NOI, or submit a completed application to the clearinghouse initiating final review of the application.

The clearinghouse may not wish to review the completed application; however, after the initial review, an information copy of the completed application may be requested by the clearinghouse at the time it is submitted to the funding agency.

Applications for renewal or continuation of grants, or applications not submitted to or acted on by the funding agency within one year after completion of clearinghouse review will be subject to a second review upon request by the clearinghouse. Part I of Circular A-95 also requires clearinghouse review of proposed amendments to applications as well as as review of the original application. Review of amendments is normally completed within 30 days.

Special Purpose Unit of Local Government Versus General Local Government

If assistance is being sought by a special purpose unit of local government, the clearinghouses must assure that any unit of general local government having jurisdiction over the area in which the project is to be located has the opportunity to confer, consult, or comment upon the project and its application.

In the case of an application submitted by a special purpose unit of local government, where accompanying comments indicate that the unit of general local government having jurisdiction over the area in which the project is to be located has submitted or plans to submit an application for assistance for the same or similar type of project, clearinghouses will assure that appropriate considerations and preferences are accorded the unit of general local government as specified in Section 402 of the Intergovernmental Cooperation Act of 1968.

Applications for Housing Programs

For housing programs of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), the Veterans Administration, and the Farmers Home Administration of the Department of Agriculture, the developer submits a preliminary application to the funding agency. The application should describe the project in enough detail for evaluation purposes, but lacking detailed construction plans, so that the agency can establish the feasibility and/or eligibility of the proposed project for the type of funding sought. The funding agency will transmit a copy of the initial application to the appropriate State and areawide clearinghouses for review. The clearinghouses will have 30 days to review the application and forward comments to the agency. Processing of applications at the agency will proceed concurrently with the clearinghouses' review. This procedure includes only applications involving new construction or substantial rehabilitation, and will apply to applications for loans, loan guarantees, mortgage insurance or other housing assistance. (Additional units in a substantially completed – partially built up – subdivision are not subject to a funding review. Federal agencies do not finance subdivisions, but evaluate the subdivision plan.)

As an alternative to the above procedure, the developer may submit the application directly to the appropriate clearinghouses for review prior to submitting it to the funding agency to identify any potential difficulties that could cause delay or rejection of the project. This procedure, however, involves 60 days for review. (Some HUD offices have required developers to contact clearinghouses before submitting an application to them.) The extent to which this approach and associated procedures are used should be worked out between the regional offices of the Federal agency and the clearinghouses.

Land/Water Use Programs and Construction in the National Capital Region

For project applications involving land or water use and development or construction in the National Capital Region (the District of Columbia; Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties, Maryland; Arlington, Fairfax, Prince William, and Loudoun Counties and the City of Alexandria, Virginia), a copy of the application is to be sent to the National Capital Planning Commission, the official Federal planning agency for the National Capital Region, in addition to the State and areawide clearinghouses.

3. Clearinghouses notify public agencies.

Upon receipt of the NOI, the clearinghouses have a total of 30 days to react to and gather comments about a project from public agencies.

State clearinghouse will disseminate project notification to the appropriate State and multistate agencies which might have programs affected by the proposed project, including where appropriate, environmental agencies and State agencies responsible for enforcing or furthering the objectives of civil rights laws. The areawide clearinghouse will disseminate project notifications to local government agencies or regional bodies whose interest might be affected by the proposed project, and where appropriate, local agencies with environmental and civil rights responsibilities and, upon request, to the local chief executives for projects proposed within their jurisdictions so that they may coordinate internal reviews by municipal and county agencies.

4. Public agencies review proposed project.

The public agencies will review the proposed project and inform the clearinghouses of their interest, if any. The staff of an areawide clearinghouse also conducts its own review to evaluate the consistency and significance of proposed projects to State, areawide, and local plans and programs for the area.

5.(a) No issues raised by public agencies or clearinghouses.

If no issues are raised, the clearinghouse 'signs off' and notifies the applicant. The applicant has fulfilled the requirements of Part I and may complete the application and submit it to the funding agency unless the clearinghouse specifies that it wishes to review the completed application. If it does, the clearinghouse will have an additional 30 days for review. The applicant then submits the application to the funding agency. The majority of applications do not raise any issues and do not go pass this stage of the review process.

5.(b) Issues raised by public agencies or clearinghouses.

Public agencies and/or the clearinghouses may find that a project 1) is not consistent with area planning (duplicates or conflicts with existing programs), 2) would be minimally effective, 3) would adversely affect the environment, 4) would not meet civil rights requirements, etc. These issues will be resolved in conferences held with the applicant.

Although areawide review procedures vary widely, many clearinghouses have project review committees and/or boards (usually consisting of local elected officials) that will become involved in formal review of the application, after initial staff reviews have been made and issues identified. The project review committee will consider the application and make its recommendations, the board then considers the reviews and adopts the official position of the clearinghouse on the applications at regularly scheduled meetings. The meetings are often open to the public and may be attended by the applicant (clearinghouse procedures will govern).

6. Clearinghouse arranges conference with applicant.

The clearinghouse will arrange conference as necessary with the applicant within 30 days of NOI to apply for assistance. Conferences may be held between the applicant, concerned public agencies, and the clearinghouses staff to 1) explore the project in greater detail, 2) strengthen the project, 3) identify possible conflicts, differences or mutuality of interest, or 4) resolve conflicts. If there is continued interest by the public agencies, the applicant, the clearinghouse, and the agencies may cooperate in developing an application.

7.(a) Conflicts resolved.

When conflicts are resolved and the clearinghouse is satisfied with the application, the clearinghouse 'signs off' and the applicant is notified. The clearinghouse may request review of the final application to make sure it reflects any changes in the project that may have been negotiated.

7.(b) Conflicts cannot be resolved.

When the parties involved agree that conflicts or differences concerning the proposed project cannot be resolved, the clearinghouse notifies the applicant that it will supply comments to that effect which must accompany the final application.

8. The clearinghouse requests the applicant to submit a completed application for final review. During the second 30-day review period, the clearinghouses and interested public agencies prepare comments on the proposal.

9. Clearinghouse has 30 days to submit formal comments to applicant.

10. Applicant submits application to the funding agency along with all clearinghouse comments and a statement that those comments were considered. Comments generated by the review process may be both positive and negative; thus, the applicant may choose to include a rebuttal to negative comments.

11. The Federal funding agency.

The Federal funding agency considers the application and the comments from the clearinghouses and public agencies and informs the applicant and the clearinghouse of any major action (awards, rejections, deferrals, withdrawals, returns for amendments) taken on the application within seven working days.

SUGGESTIONS FOR PROPOSAL WRITING AND FOLLOWING GRANT APPLICATION PROCEDURES

I. INTRODUCTION

This section is designed to assist persons and institutions seeking a grant from a Federal assistance program.

The ideas and suggestions in this section are not all-inclusive. They are intended as a general guide. The material applies to most assistance proposals. Applicants should remember that the basic requirements, application forms information and procedures vary with the Federal agency making the grant.

The legislative intent and the administrative guidelines of Federal programs (the Authorization section of the Catalog program description) are useful as a starting point in considering if and how a proposal matches the needs of the Federal granting agency. The remaining sections of the Catalog program description further define features of the Federal program.

A telephone call or a letter to the Federal agency contact person (the Information Contacts section of the Catalog program description) is invaluable help in the beginning. The potential applicant should consult the information contact person before developing a proposal to determine whether an application should be made, if there is money available and the process used by the agency in accepting applications. It is important to recognize any priorities the Federal agency considers significant. Agencies often prepare guidelines for specific programs to assist applicants in proposal development. These guidelines should be requested by the applicant.

Individuals without prior grant writing experience may find it useful to attend a grantsmanship workshop. A workshop can amplify the basic information presented here. Applicants requiring additional readings on grantsmanship and proposal development should consult the references listed at the end of this section and other library resources.

II. INITIAL PROPOSAL DEVELOPMENT

A. The Concept Paper

After outlining the idea for a proposal, it is useful to develop a concept paper perhaps one or two pages in length. The paper should attempt, at a minimum, to outline proposed goals, rationale, population to be served, estimate of cost, and expected program achievements. Periodically revise the paper as ideas or grant requirements change. The paper should be distributed to interested persons and agencies in the community. They can help by providing both review and comment. Select someone who knows and someone who does not know about the subject matter of the paper. This procedure will serve to provide at least two perspectives on the contents; first, a substantive review of the material, and, second, insight into the clarity of the writing style and gramatical accuracy. A review by someone who has submitted a proposal to the funding source in the past will yield information regarding experience with the agency's proposal preferences. The concept paper may be used later for both clearinghouse review (Notification of Intent), and if necessary, for the proposal summary page of the application which is usually one of the most important pages in the grant package. (Refer to the application kit for details on the development of the proposal summary page.) When developing an idea for a proposal it is important to determine if the idea has been or is now being considered in the applicant's locality or State. A careful check should be made with legislators and area government agencies and related public and private agencies which may have grant awards or contracts to do similar work. If a similar program exists, the applicant may need to reconsider submitting the proposed project particularly if duplication of effort is perceived. Provided significant differences can be established between the existing and proposed project it may be unwise to pursue Federal assistance. The applicant must strive to select a 'fundable' project which can be supported in view of the local need. Alternatives, in the absence of Federal support should be pointed out. The influence of the project both during and after the project period should be explained. The consequences of the project as a result of funding should be highlighted.

B. Community Support

Community support for most proposals is essential. Once an outline or concept paper is attempted, look for individuals or groups representing academic, political, professional and lay organizations who may be willing to support the proposal in writing. The type and caliber of community support is critical in the initial and subsequent review phases. Numerous letters of support can be persuasive to a grantor agency. Do not overlook support from local government agencies and public officials. Letters of endorsement detailing exact areas of project sanction and commitment should be included when submitting a proposal to a Federal agency. Several months may be required to develop letters of endorsement since something of value (e.g., buildings, staff, services) is sometimes negotiated between the parties involved. Many agencies require, in writing, affiliation agreements (a mutual agreement to share services between agencies) and building space commitments prior to either grant approval or award. A useful method of generating community support is to hold meetings with the top decision makers who would be concerned with the subject matter of the proposal. The forum for discussion may inclue a query into the merits of the proposal, development of a contract of support for the proposal, to generate data in support of the proposal, or development of a strategy to create proposal support from a large number of community groups.

C. Identification of a Funding Resource

A chart is provided in the Introduction (see, How to Use the Catalog) to guide users through Catalog sections and retrieve all pertinent program information available in the Catalog. For new Catalog users this chart may be consulted first for an orientation to the suggested method for identifying Federal financial assistance in the Catalog. A review of the Objectives and Uses and Use Restrictions sections of the Catalog program description can point out which programs might provide funding for an idea. Do not overlook the related programs as potential resources. Both the applicant and the grantor agency should have the same interests, intentions and needs if a proposal is to be considered an acceptable candidate for funding. Once a potential grantor agency is identified, call the contact person/number identified in Information Contacts and ask for a grant application kit. Later get to know some of the grantor agency personnel. Ask for suggestions, criticisms and advice about the proposed project. In many cases the more agency personnel know about the proposal the better the chance of support and of an eventual favorable decision. Sometimes it is useful to send the concept paper to a specific agency official in a separate cover letter, and ask for review and comment at the earliest possible convenience. Always check with the Federal agency to determine its preference if this approach is under consideration. If the review is unfavorable and differences cannot be resolved, ask the original agency or official to make a referral to another department or agency. A personal visit to the agency's regional office or headquarters is also important. Such a visit may bring out some essential details about the proposal or help secure literature and references from the agency library or clearinghouse. At the outset, applicants whose proposals are subject to OMB Circular No. A-95, Part I, are reminded that contact with Federal agency officials prior to project clearance does not circumvent the A-95 process. Such communication should occur only when specific advice is sought or clarification is required. Applicants should be aware of and comply with OMB Circular No. A-95 requirements when applicable (see Catalog Introduction).

It may be useful to consider consulting the State Central Information Reception Agency (SCIRA) to learn the types and dollar amounts of programs approved or rejected in the applicant's State. This organization is coordinated through the Governor's office in each State. Federal agencies are required to report funding information as funds are approved, increased or decreased among projects within a given State depending on the type of required reporting (see, Treasury Circular 1082 in the Catalog Introduction). Also, consider reviewing the Federal Budget for the current fiscal year to determine proposed dollar amounts for particular functions.

The applicant should carefully study the eligibility requirements for each Federal program under consideration (see the Applicant Eligibility section of the Catalog program description). The applicant may learn he or she is required to provide services otherwise unintended such as a service to particular client groups, or involvement of specific institutions. It may necessitate, in some way, the modification of the original concept in order for the project to be eligible for funding.

The timing used by the applicant in implementing Part II Section A, B and C above depends upon the stage of development of each section. The applicant should carefully balance the knowledge and understanding of each part prior to determining the first step and before proceeding to the formal development of the proposal.

III. WRITING AND DEVELOPING A PROPOSAL

A. Gathering Applicant Organizational Data

The applicant should gather data about its organization from all available sources. Most proposals require a description of an applicant's organization to describe its past and present operations. Some features to consider are:

1. A brief biography of board members and/or key staff; and
2. The organization's goals, philosophy, track record with other grantors and any success stories.

The data should be relevant to the goals of the Federal grantor agency and should establish the applicant's credibility.

B. Problem Statement Development

One of the key elements of a proposal is a clear, concise and well-supported statement of the problem to be addressed. The best way to collect information about the problem is to conduct and document both a formal and informal needs assessment for a program in the target or service area. There is a considerable body of literature on the exact assessment techniques to be used. Any local, regional or State government planning office or local university offering course work in planning and evaluation techniques should be able to provide excellent background references. Types of data that may be collected include: historical, geographic, quantifiable, factual, statistical, unobstrusive and philosophical information as well as studies completed by colleges, and literature searches from a public or university library. Local colleges or universities which have a department or section related to the proposal topic may help determine if there is interest in developing a student or faculty project to conduct a needs assessment. It may be helpful to include examples of the findings for highlight in the proposal. The information provided should be both factual and directly related to the problem addressed by the proposal. Areas to document are:

1. The purpose for developing the proposal;
2. The beneficiaries, who they are and how they will benefit;
3. The social and economic costs to be affected;
4. The nature of the problem (provide as much hard evidence as possible);
5. How the applicant organization came to realize the problem exists, and what is currently being done about the problem.
6. The alternatives when the funding is over. Explain what will happen to the project and the implications;
7. Most important, the specific manner through which problems might be solved. Review the resources needed, how they will be used and to what end.

IV. ACT OF WRITING

A. Preorganization

Prior to any formal development of a proposal the applicant should first complete the task of accumulating information, and then begin writing the proposal. The applicant should also have the grant application kit in hand.

One of the first steps in the development of an application is to identify a coordinating person and have this person thoroughly review the application kit. This task is best performed by the person with the major responsibility for the coordination of the proposal development tasks and may or may not be the person who knows the most about the proposal subject area. These are often two different persons. Make an outline of the forms, copy each one and put the originals in a secure file. Use these copies only when ready to type the final draft. Then substitute the filed copies in the application kit. It may be useful to develop a milestone chart (a type of schedule which charts significant events in the development of a proposal over time) to address and identify the implementation dates of the following:

1. Formatting the available information not requiring additional development;
2. Gathering data necessary for development of the proposal and where to get it;
3. Who and when staff will be available to assist with the project;
4. Item—by—item development to the first draft;
5. Schedule for the completion of the second and final drafts to be inspected by the coordinator.

Whenever steps in the milestone chart are delayed it is advisable to immediately negotiate the earliest possible new deadline with the affected parties. Care should be exercised to guarantee that the newly selected date does not throw off the entire project schedule. Most grant proposals will need to be copied four times or more. The original and copies will go to to the Federal grantor agency's program and/or grant office. Other copies may go to to single State agencies, regional and local government officials and board members (if any). If the copying is done internally it may be wise to identify a backup copy machine is case of mechanical failure. This may be critical when working against strict deadlines. Typist should be notified and scheduled in advance if possible. Prepare to commit enough financial resources to producing a proposal. It is difficult to gauge how much money, material and personnel will be needed, but some considerations are: person power (writers, typist, clerks, researchers, statisticians, consultants, etc.), supplies (typewriter, paper, copy machine, postage, binders, pencils and pens, correction fluid, types of stylus apparatus for charts, etc.), office space, a telephone and office equipment.

B. Getting Organized to Write the Proposal

Throughout the proposal writing stage keep a notebook handy to write down ideas. Periodically, try to connect ideas by reviewing the notebook. Never throw away written ideas during the grant writing stage. Maintain a file labeled 'Ideas' or by some other convenient title and review the ideas from time to time. The file should be easily accessible. The gathering of documents such as articles of incorporation, tax exemption certificates, bylaws, etc., should be completed, if possible, before the writing begins.

C. A Note on Special Technical Services

States and political subdivisions can obtain technical information services from Federal agencies when preparing proposals. A written request from the chief executive officer (governor, mayor or county executive) is required. Services are provided according to the Federal agency's special capabilities, mission and authorization by law. Assistance may include: statistical or other studies and compilations, development projects, technical tests and evaluations, technical information, training activities, surveys, reports and documents. All services must relate to either current or future needs of the Federal Government. Some form of proof is required to ensure that these services can be procured reasonably and expeditiously by the requesting agency through ordinary business channels. Federal agencies may require considerable time in supplying information. Consider such possible time lags when requesting assistance.

The following information (Sections D, E, F and Parts V and VI) is generally adaptable to all proposals, and will test both creativity and resourcefulness of the applicant.

D. Developing Program Objectives

Program objectives refer to specific activities in a proposal. It is necessary to identify all objectives related to the goals to be reached, and the methods to be employed to achieve the stated objectives. Consider quantities or things measurable and refer to a problem statement and the outcome of proposed activities when developing a well stated objective. The figures used should be verifiable. Remember, if the proposal is funded, the stated objectives will probably be used to evaluate program progress, so be realistic. There is literature available to help identify and write program objectives.

E. Writing the Solution — A Program Design

The program design refers to how the project is expected to work and solve the stated problem. Sketch out the following:

1. The activities to occur along with the related resources and staff needed to operate the project (inputs).

2. A flow chart of the organizational features of the project. Describe how the parts interrelate, where personnel will be needed and what they are expected to do. Identify the kinds of facilities, transportation and support services required (throughputs).

3. Explain what will be achieved through 1 and 2 above (outputs); i.e., plan for measurable results. Project staff may be required to produce evidence of program performance through an examination of stated objectives during either a site visit by the Federal grantor agency and or grant reviews which may involve peer review committees.

4. It may be useful to devise a diagram of the program design. Draw a three column block. Each column is headed by one of the parts (inputs, throughputs and outputs), and on the left (next to the first column) specific program features should be indentified. In the grid specify something about the program design, for example, assume the first column is labeled inputs and the first row is labeled staff. On the grid one might specify under inputs five nurses to operate a child care unit. The throughput might be to maintain charts, counsel the children, set up daily routine, etc., and outputs might be to discharge 25 healthy children per week. This type of procedure will help to conceptualize both the scope and detail of the project.

5. Wherever possible, justify in the narrative the course of action taken. The most economical method should be used that does not compromise or sacrifice project quality. The financial expenses identified here will become points of negotiation later. If everything is not carefully justified in writing in the proposal, after negotiation with the Federal grantor agencies, it may no longer resemble the original concept. Carefully consider the pressures of the proposed implementation, that is, the time and money needed to acquire each part of the plan. A Program Evaluation and Review Technique (PERT) chart could be useful and supportive in justifying some proposals.

6. Highlight the innovative features of the proposal which could be considered distinct from others under consideration.

6. Whenever possible use appendices to provide details, supplementary data, references, and information requiring indepth analysis. This type of data, although supportive of the proposal, if included in the body of the design, could detract from its readability. Appendices provide the proposal reader with immediate access to details if and when clarification of an idea, sequence or conclusion is required. Time tables, work plans, schedules, activities, metodologies, legal papers, personal vitae, letters of support, endorsements, etc. are examples of appendices.

F. Evaluating the Program

Most Federal agencies now require some form of program evaluation among grantees. The requirements of the proposed project should be explored carefully. Evaluations may be conducted by an internal staff member, an evaluation firm or both. The applicant should state the amount of time needed to evaluate, how the feedback will be distributed among the proposed staff, and a schedule for review and comment for this type of communication. Evaluation designs may start at the beginning, middle or end of a project, but the applicant should specify a start-up time. It is practical to submit an evaluation design at the start of a project for two reasons:

1. Convincing evaluations require the collection of appropriate data before and during program operations; and,

2. If the evaluation design cannot be prepared at the outset then a critical review of the program design may be advisable.

Even if the evaluation design has to be revised as the project progresses, it is much easier and cheaper to modify a good design. If the problem is not well defined and carefully analyzed for cause/effect relationships then a good evaluation design may be difficult to achieve. Sometimes a pilot study is needed to begin the identification of facts and relationships. Often a thorough literature search may be sufficient.

Evaluation requires both coordination and agreement among program decision makers (if known). Above all, the Federal grantor agency's requirements should be highlighted in the evaluation design. Also, Federal grantor agencies may require specific evaluation techniques such as designated data formats (an existing information collection system) or they may offer financial inducements for voluntary participation in a national evaluation study. The applicant should ask specifically about these points. Also, consult the Criteria For Funding Proposals section of the Catalog program description to determine the exact evaluation methods to be required for the program if funded.

V. BUDGET FORMULATION

A. Planning the Budget

Funding levels in Federal assistance programs change yearly. It is useful to review the appropriations over the past several years to try to project future funding levels (see Financial Information section of the Catalog program description).

However, it is safer to never anticipate that the income from the grant will be the sole support for the project. This consideration should be given to the overall budget requirements, and in particular, to budget line items most subject to inflationary pressures. Restraint is important in determining inflationary cost projections (avoid padding budget line items), but attempt to anticipate possible future increases. Some vulnerable budget areas are: utilities, rental of buildings and equipment, salary increases, food, telephones, insurance and tranportation. Budget adjustments are sometimes made after the grant award, but this can be a lengthy process. Be certain that implementation, continuation and phasedown costs can be met. Consider costs associated with leases, evaluation systems, hard/soft match requirements, audits, development, implementation and maintenance of information systems and accounting systems and other long-term financial commitments.

A well prepared budget justifies all expenses and is consistent with the proposal narrative. Some areas in need of an evaluation for consistency are: the salaries in the proposal in relation to those of the applicant organization should be similar; if new staff are being hired additional space and equipment should be considered, if necessary; if the budget calls for an equipment purchase it should be the type allowed by the grantor agency; if additional space is rented the increase in insurance should be supported; if an indirect cost rate applies to the proposal the division between direct and indirect costs should not be in conflict, and the aggregate budget totals should refer directly to the approved formula; if matching costs are required the contributions to the matching fund should be taken out of the budget unless otherwise specified in the application instructions.

It is very important to become familiar with Government-wide circular requirements. The Catalog identifies in the program description section the particular circulars applicable to a Federal program, and summarizes circular requirements in Appendix I. The applicant should thoroughly review the appropriate circulars since they are essential in determining items such as cost principles and conforming with Government guidelines for Federal domestic assistance.

VI. REVIEW

A. Criticism

At some point, perhaps after the first or second draft is completed, seek out a neutral third party to review the proposal working draft for continuity, clarity and reasoning. Ask for constructive criticism at this point, rather than wait for the Federal grantor agency to volunteer this information during the review cycle. For example, has the writer made unsupported assumptions or used jargon or excessive language in the proposal?

B. Signature

Most proposals are made to institutions rather than individuals. Often signatures of chief administrative officials is required. Check to make sure they are included in the proposal where appropriate.

C. Neatness

Proposals should be typed, collated, copied and packaged correctly and neatly(according to agency instructions, if any). Each package should be inspected to ensure uniformity from cover to cover. Binding may require either clamps or hard covers. Check with the Federal agency to determine its preference. A neat, organized and attractive proposal package can leave a positive impression with the reader about the proposal contents.

C. Mailing

A cover letter should always accompany a proposal. Standard U.S. Postal Service requirements apply unless otherwise indicated by the Federal agency. Make sure there is enough time for the proposals to reach their destinations. Otherwise, special arrangements may be necessary. Always coordinate such arrangements with the Federal grantor agency project office (the agency which will ultimately have the responsibility for the project), the grant office (the agency which will coordinate the grant review) and the contract office if necessary (the agency responsible for disbursement, grant award notices, etc.).

VII. ADDITIONAL SOURCES OF INFORMATION

Below are resources for more detail about grants and grantwriting. There are several very good private resources available which can be identified by consulting a public library.

A. Research Tools

THE FEDERAL REGISTER

The Federal Register, published daily, is the medium for making available to the public Federal agency regulations and other legal documents of the Executive Branch. These documents cover a wide range of Government activities. Here, Government requirements are published which involve environmental protection, consumer product safety, food and drug standards, occupational health and safety, and many more areas of concern to the public.

Perhaps more importantly, the Federal Register includes proposed changes in regulated areas. Each proposed change published carries an invitation for any citizen or group to participate in the consideration of the proposed regulation through the submission of written data, views, or arguments, and sometimes by oral presentations. Through the publication of proposed rules and notices of public meetings, citizens are given the opportunity to be informed about and participate in the workings of their Government.

The Federal Register Index is based on a consolidation of entries appearing in the issues of the Federal Register together with broad references. It is published monthly and is cumulated for 12 months. All Federal Register publications are available for purchase from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, DC 20402.

THE CODE OF FEDERAL REGULATIONS

The Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) is a codification of the general and permanent rules published in the Federal Register by executive departments and agencies of the Federal Government. It includes all statutory regulations of Federal agencies, and is divided into 50 titles which represent broad subject areas of Federal regulations (e.g., Housing and Urban Development, Public Health, Public Welfare, or Transportation). Each title is divided into chapters which usually bear the name of the issuing agency. Each chapter is further subdivided into parts covering specific regulatory areas. The number preceding the CFR citation is the title or volume number. The CFR is kept up-to-date by the individual issues of the Federal Register, these two publications must be used together to determine the latest version of any given rule. Individual volumes of the CFR are revised at least once each calendar year and issued on a staggered quarterly basis. The CFR thus serves as a convenient reference for the citizen desiring a comprehensive source for general and permanent Federal regulations.

A General index to the entire Code of Federal Regulations, the CFR Index, is revised as of July 1 each year. The numerical Finding Aids, a cumulative list of CFR Sections affected is publised monthly and is cumulated for 12 months, keyed to the revision dates of the various CFR volumes.

The Federal Register and the Code of Federal Regulations are available in Federal depository libraries and most major libraries or Federal bookstores. Individual copies may be purchased from the Government Printing Office.

THE FEDERAL BUDGET

There are four budget documents; 1) The Budget of the U.S. Government, 2) The Budget of the U.S. Government Appendix, 3) The Budget in Brief, and 4) The Special Analyses, Budget of the U. S. Government.

The Budget of the U.S. Government provides information on spending programs that the President proposes for the coming fiscal year. For program identification purposes, the last three digits of the identification code in the Financial Information section of the program description is the functional code. (The functional code permits the budget to be stated in terms of the single function which represents its major purpose e.g., Education, Energy, Health, Transportation, etc.). These codes are contained in the back section of the Budget (Budget Outlays by Function).

Each chapter of the Appendix to the Budget is divided by programs authorized by existing legislation (including extensions and renewals) and programs requiring new legislation. The Appendix provides information on Federal programs, and is a more detailed document which identifies specific amounts (as shown in the budget) for each existing or proposed program. Supplemental proposals and amendments for the current year are also identified.

The Budget in Brief is a more concise document which provides a technical overview of the budget. It also provides graphic displays, and summary and historical tables on the Federal budget.

The Special Analyses, Budget of the U.S. Government contains special analyses that are designed to highlight specific program areas or provide other significant presentations of Federal budget data.

STATE CENTRAL INFORMATION RECEPTION AGENCIES

A State Central Information Reception Agency (SCIRA) is an office or unit of State government designated by the Governor to receive notification of grant awards issued under the provisions of Treasury Circular 1082. Federal agencies are required to notify the appropriate SCIRA in each State of Federal financial assistance awarded and subsequent related transactions including changes in the value or duration of a grant. For basic reporting (grants awarded to States or political subdivisions), Federal agencies submit a Report of Federal Action to the appropriate SCIRA using SF 424. Supplemental reporting (all other Federal assistance to any recipient) is submitted to the SCIRA using individual agency procedures. (See Appendix I of the Catalog for programs designated as basic or supplemental.) The SCIRA in each State is set up primarily to serve the Governor and the legislature. The extent to which it is equipped to serve others such as local governments or the general public varies from State to State.

New Mexico - Upper Rio Hondo watershed, Lincoln and Otero Counties received $275,000 to solve water quality problems caused by sedimentation of reservoirs and channels, salinity in irrigation return flows and conservation of available water supplies. Also in 1980 ACP funded 9 Small Family Farm Assistnce Projects (SFFAP) e.g. Louisiana - $200,000 to develop training and demonstration programs to help small and part-time farmers in West Carroll, East Carroll, and Madison parishes acquire the skills needed to operate economically viable farms. The Small Family Farm Assistance Projects (SFFAP) were scored and rated in much the same way as the Water Quality Projects, but using different criteria. The SFFAP's main objective is to assist in fulfilling USDA's commitment in meeting the needs of rural America by helping small acreage farmers increase their production and income. Each project had to meet the following criteria: (1) identification of the small farmer concerns and needs, (2) an expression of concern and willingness of local organizations to provide leadership and give high priority to the project, (3) be of such a size as to insure accomplishment of goals within a 2 to 3 year period, and (4) project goals need to be consistent with objectives of the involved agencies and organizations.

RELATED PROGRAMS: 10.414, Resource Conservation and Development Loans; 10.902, Soil and Water Conservation.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS: Montana - Rodeo Ranchettes Critical Area Treatment: Severe streambank erosion (up to 50 feet in places) along about 4,000 feet of the Bitterroot River, fronting on an area of existing rural homes and potential homesites, was one problem brought to the attention of sponsors of the Bitterroot RC&D Area. As a result, the Missoula Conservation District and Missoula County Commissioners sponsored a measure to correct the problem. With the stabilization of the critical areas, rural residents can now feel safe and secure. Downstream water quality has been improved, recreation opportunities have been enhanced, and fish and wildlife resources are protected from sedimentation damages. Mississippi - Jonestown Flood Prevention and Drainage (Northwest Mississippi RC&D Area): About 60 homes in the small rural town of Jonestown, Mississippi, (population about 900) have a history of frequent flooding. Due to the protection provided by this measure, none of these homes were flooded during the heavy rainstorms of 1974-1975. Sponsors were Coahoma County Soil and Water Conservation District and Jonestown. Cost-sharing assistance was provided through the Northwest Mississippi RC&D Area. Oregon - Nursery Bridge Diversion and Highline Canal Pipe Drop: This work provides for reliable and efficient delivery of irrigation water to 7,000 acres on 300 farms. The improvement will also prevent erosion, sedimentation, water loss, and drainage problems. Sponsors of the Columbia-Blue Mountain RC&D Area provided cost-sharing funds. West Virginia - Stumpy Bottom Flood Prevention: A 47-acre area near the city of Princeton is now protected. The area contains homes, business, and small industry. Open spaces can now be made attractive and useable as play areas without the problem of pools of stagnant water good only for breeding mosquitoes and as a source of pollution. Because of the protection provided by technical and financial assistance of the Mountain-Dominion RC&D Area, a wood preserving plant, employing 10 men, has been established in this area. South Carolina - Hampton Group Flood Prevention and Drainage: Hard work and good planning have benefited 10 families in the Dabbs Crossroads section of Sumter County. Assistance to these families was provided by the sponsors of the Santee-Wateree RC&D Area, including Sumter County Commissioners and the Sumter County Soil and Water Conservation District. Their homes are now safe from flooding, gardens are again productive, and flooded and muddy roads are no longer a problem.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS: Proposals for measures are judged on relevance of the measure to the RC&D area plan's goals and objectives. Criteria for setting priorities are usually published in the RC&D area plan or are available from the local sponsors of the RC&D area.

10.910 RURAL ABANDONED MINE PROGRAM (RAMP)

FEDERAL AGENCY: SOIL CONSERVATION SERVICE, DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

AUTHORIZATION: Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977, Section 406, Public Law 95-87, 30 U.S.C. 1236, 91 Stat. 460.

OBJECTIVES: To protect people and the environment from the adverse effects of past coal-mining practices and to promote the development of soil and water resources of unreclaimed mined lands.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE: Direct Payments for Specified Use; Advisory Services and Counseling.

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS: Cost share funds are available only for conservation practices determined to be needed for the reclamation, conservation, and development of up to 320 acres per owner of rural abandoned coal mine land or lands and waters affected by coal mining activities. Practices must be applied in accordance with a reclamation plan and contract provisions. Practices are limited to those which will provide land stabilization, erosion and sediment control, and development of soil, water (excluding stream channelization), woodland, wildlife, recreation resources and the agricultural productivity of such lands.

ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS:

Applicant Eligibility: Individuals, groups or units of government who own or control the surface or water rights of abandoned coal land or lands, and water affected by coal mining practices before August 3, 1977. These areas are not eligible if: (1) there is continuing reclamation responsibility on the part of the mine operator or the State; (2) the lands are in Federal ownerships; and (3) the surface rights are under easement or lease to be remined.

Beneficiary Eligibility: Same as Applicant Eligibility.

Credentials/Documentation: Participants must furnish proof of ownership or management control for the contract period and written consent of the landowner, if not the owner. Participants are responsible for completing an application for assistance that includes statement of financial burden.

APPLICATION AND AWARD PROCESS:

Preapplication Coordination: None.

Application Procedure: Applicant requests program assistance on Form SCS CO-156 through the local office of the Soil Conservation Service or conservation district. Applicant must develop, with the assistance of SCS, a reclamation plan as a basis for program assistance.

Award Procedure: Participants must sign a 5 to 10 year contract based on the reclamation plan to receive cost sharing. Cost payments may be made directly to the applicant or the contractor upon satisfactory completion of identifiable units of work. Approval of contracts is made by the SCS Administrator, State conservationist or contracting officer depending upon dollar amount of contract. Reclamation work contained in RAMP contract may be performed under an SCS awarded contract or by the participant.

Deadlines: SCS is to announce, through local media, dates and variable deadlines for receiving applications.

Range of Approval/Disappoval Time: Variable, no specified time. Approval will depend on volume of applications received, available funds and priority assigned by reclamation committee and complexity of the reclamation project.

Appeals: To SCS State conservationist within 30 days after notice of dispute.

Renewals: Eligible applicants may re-apply for program assistance in accordance with program funding priorities. Subject to a 320-acre limitation per owner.

ASSISTANCE CONSIDERATIONS:

Formula and Matching Requirements: Allotments of Rural Abandoned Mine Program funds to SCS State conservationists are to reflect the national program needs; the geographic areas from which funds were derived; the funding priority assigned to applications for program assistance, including benefits expected to be derived; and, the practicability and feasibility of the reclamation work proposed. For 120 acres or less, the Federal cost-share rate for applying land use and conservation treatment may be up to 80 percent depending upon the income producing potential of the land after reclamation. However, this rate may be increased to a level required to obtain participation when the main benefits of reclamation accrue to the public and there is a declaration of financial burden. For acreage in excess of 120 acres up to 320 acres maximum, the cost-share rate is to be reduced proportionately by up to 0.25 percent per acre. The Administrator of the Soil Conservation Service may establish specific rates in accordance with the above criteria. Initially, cost-share rates will range from 25 to 100 percent.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance: Contract period is for not less than 5 or more than 10 years.

POST ASSISTANCE REQUIREMENTS:

Reports: SCS and applicant make a status review which includes maintenance of completed items, need for deletion or addition of contract items, and as appropriate, the need to reschedule installation of practices.

Audits: SCS makes periodic, random on-site reviews of the quantity and quality of the application and maintenance of contract items. Program activities are subject to audit by the Office of Inspector General, USDA.

Records: Recipients should retain the reclamation plan contract and subsequent correspondence and transactions because they will be held accountable for its implementation.

OBJECTIVES: To sustain industrial and commercial viability in designated areas by providing financial assistance to businesses that create or retain permanent jobs, expand or establish plants in redevelopment areas for projects where financial assistance is not available from other sources, on terms and conditions that would permit accomplishment of the project and further economic development in the area.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE: Direct Loans; Guaranteed/Insured Loans.

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS: Long-term business development loans up to 65 percent of the cost may be used for the acquisition of fixed assets only (i.e., land, building, machinery, and equipment, including land preparation and building rehabilitation). Funds may be used for most kinds of new industrial or commercial facilities or to expand one already in existence. Loans for working capital needs are not limited by statute, but are available only for short periods. In addition, the government will guarantee up to 90 percent of the unpaid balance of loans for the acquisition of fixed assets or for working capital; and up to 90 percent of the rental payments required by guaranteed lease. JOINT FUNDING: This program is considered suitable for joint funding with closely related Federal assistance programs in accordance with provisions of OMB Circular No. A-111. For programs that are not identified as suitable for joint funding, the applicant may consult the headquarters office of the appropriate funding agencies for further information on statutory or other restrictions involved. Fifteen percent equity is required by statute for fixed asset loans and administratively imposed on working capital loans and on guarantees.

Beneficiary Eligibility: If an application is filed by a local industrial development corporation to establish a facility to be leased to a user (or beneficiary), the same criteria apply.

Costs will be determined in accordance with FMC 74-4 for State and local governments.

FEDERAL AGENCY: ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT ADMINISTRATION, DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

AUTHORIZATION: Title II of Trade Act of 1974; Public Law 93-618; 88 Stat. 1978; 19 U.S.C. 2101-2487 (1975).

OBJECTIVES: To provide trade adjustment assistance to firms, businesses and industry associations and communities adversely affected by increased imports.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE: Direct Loans; Guaranteed/Insured Loans.

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS: Firms: Under Chapter 3 of Title II, a firm may petition the Economic Development Administration (EDA) of the Department of Commerce for certification as being impacted by import competition within the context of the Trade Act of 1974. Upon certification, the firm is eligible to apply to EDA for assistance. EDA approves the proposal by a firm for its economic recovery, and provides assistance to implement the recovery plans. Adjustment assistance from EDA for individual firms may be furnished through technical and financial assistance, to be supplied separately or in combination. Financial assistance may be used for capital equipment, buildings, land, and for working capital purposes. No financial assistance is provided if funds are available from private sources on reasonable terms. Technical assistance, which is provided by contracting or consulting services, may be used to help develop, as well as implement, a firm's recovery proposal. Communities: To receive trade adjustment assistance from EDA, a community may either apply under the procedures provided pursuant to the Trade Act of 1974, including submission of a petition to EDA for certification of the community, or apply directly to EDA for specific economic adjustment assistance pursuant to Title IX of the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965, as amended (PWEDA). Upon certification pursuant to the Trade Act, a community may become eligible to receive most kinds of assistance available to communities designated pursuant to Title IV of PWEDA. Communities already designated under Title IV of PWEDA will gain little in the way of additional benefits by also receiving certification under the Trade Act, although such is permitted. JOINT FUNDING: This program is considered suitable for joint funding with closely related Federal financial assistance programs in accordance with the provisions of OMB Circular No. A-111. For programs that are not identified as suitable for joint funding, the applicant may consult the headquarters or field office of the appropriate funding agency for further information on statutory or other restrictions involved.

Beneficiary Eligibility: Firms and communities certified by the Secretary of Commerce as eligible for adjustment assistance.

JOINT FUNDING: This program is considered suitable for joint funding with closely related Federal financial assistance programs in accordance with the provisions of OMB Circular No. A-111. For programs that are not identified as suitable for joint funding, the applicant may consult the headquarters or field office of the appropriate funding agency for further information on statutory or other restrictions involved.

Renewals: Awards are made annually on a fiscal year basis.

ASSISTANCE CONSIDERATIONS:

Formula and Matching Requirements: The amount received by a State health authority will be no less than the greater of $1.00 per capita, or the amount which the State received under section 314(d) for fiscal year 1979. States will receive not more than the lesser of $1.50 per capita, or a legislatively prescribed percentage of the amount of State and local expenditures for comprehensive public health services. The Secretary is to consider State financial need in awarding amounts between $1.00 and $1.50 per capita. To the extent that appropriations do not permit States to receive these amounts, funds will be awarded on a pro rata basis. In the instance that appropriations for this program in a year are less than the amount appropriated for grants under Section 314(d) in fiscal year 1979, the pro-rata reduction will be based strictly on a grantees's award under Section 314(d) for fiscal year 1979, without regard to the formula.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance: Annual fiscal year basis.

POST ASSISTANCE REQUIREMENTS:

Reports: An annual report describing the comprehensive public health services in the State, including an expenditure report, is to be submitted to the National Health Program Reporting System by December 1, and a narrative summary of results accomplished is to be submitted by February 1.

These funds are referred to as Fund A. Each State receives a grant of $70,000, and such part of the appropriation remaining as the number of live births in the State bears to the total number in the United States. States must match dollar for dollar the funds allotted to them under this section. The other half of the maternal and child health funds (Section 503(2)) is known as Fund B. From this fund an amount is administratively allocated for special projects. The remainder of Fund B is apportioned among the State for assistance in carrying out its State plan. No matching is required for the funds allotted under this section.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION:

Account Identification: 75-0350-0-1-551.

Obligations: (Grants) FY 79 $243,400,000; FY 80 est $243,400,000; and FY 81 est $254,800,000.

Range and Average of Financial Assistance: Formula: $160,000 to $18,100,000; $3,600,000; Project: $4,400 to $345,000; $69,000.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS: Formula Grants - 57 applications were received and 57 awards were made. Project grants - 130 applications were received and 120 awards were made. In an effort to further reduce the Nation's infant mortality rate, increased emphasis is being given to providing family planning services through this program. Preliminary estimates indicate that about 2,610,000 women receive Family Planning services in fiscal year 1979 from all sources. In fiscal year 1979, an estimated 2,520,500 children attended well-clinics. In fiscal year 1979, states were assisted in the provision of prenatal and postpartum care to approximately half of the women receiving services in clinics especially in rural areas. State Maternal and Child Health Agencies are required to carry out a program of projects in each of five areas; maternity and infant care, comprehensive care of children and youth, dental care for children, infant intensive care, and family planning. The maternity and infant care projects in fiscal year 1979 provided comprehensive health care to approximately 740,500 mothers and infants and continued to exercise influence on reductions in infant mortality. In many of the children and youth projects, the cost of care per child is decreasing because of the emphasis on comprehensive rather than emergency or episodic care. The extent of this should be to extend preventive services to a larger number of children in succeeding fiscal years. Approximately 1,000,000 children received treatment under the dental care projects in fiscal year 1979. Intensive infant care project provides increased medical and nursing supervision, care by personnel specially trained in such fields as treatment of cardiopulmonary failure and respiratory distress in newborns, and use of special equipment in an attempt to combat high infant mortality rates for infants born prematurely or with conditions detrimental to their normal growth and development. It is expected that in fiscal years 1980, and 1981 these levels will be maintained.
